WHAT'S GOING ON AROUND THE PLAYHOUSE

Tommy Shrewsbury who played the corpse in "Ramshackle Inn" last week was forbidden by Len Wayland, who had to carry him all through the play, to drink any chocolate malteds for the run of the show. This was pretty hard on Tommy who is trying to put on weight. However, he is now back on his high callory diet and is over any minor injuries he suffered during the engagement. He is spending Sunday in New York visiting a serious interest and it is rumored he will not be a bachelor much longer!

Altho Vincent Price is married to a very attractive young woman he has always had a strong appeal for the ladies. His most famous role was in the Broadway production of "Angel Street." Vincent Price in "Goodbye Again" to be presented next week will be one of Ivoryton's most glamorous productions this season.

Dulcie Cooper will not be in the next two productions but we are hoping she will appear again later in the season.

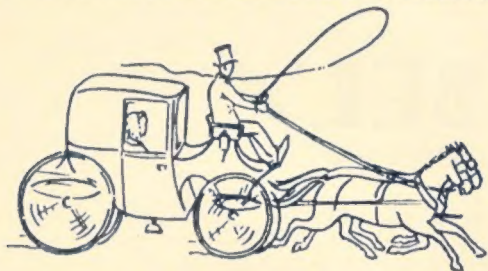

Sally Ondeck, the proprietor of Ivoryton Antiques, spent last winter in the Virgin Islands. Sally has always been most helpful to the theater. Many interesting pieces of furniture on the Finlayson sets are loaned by Ivoryton Antiques. Sally says she has fallen in love with the tropics and would like to live in St. Thomas.

Hal Bone, dramatic critic for Variety and display advertising manager of the New Haven Journal Courier, is making a tour with his family of all the prominent summer stock playhouses. He is doing a feature story about his trip for Variety, and will begin his trip by spending the weekend in Ivoryton.

Miss Eleanor Gould, director of the Ivoryton Playhouse school reports that this year there is more than the usual amount of talent distributed among the apprentices. The dates have not been set for the apprentice show when as usual, there will be open house.

Les and Arleen Brooks, two of the best friends of the Playhouse and Playhouse People entertained little Elaine Lake, Veronica's daughter on July 4th. Robin Brooks was really the hostess and shared her fireworks with the star's daughter.

Of course everyone goes to the Playhouse Restaurant after the evening performances. Ted and Marge Bouton, the host and hostess, are ever pleased to serve the patrons of the Playhouse with after theater snacks.
